At Fort Washington the battle command station will be manned all day with observers on close lookout that no enemy secures a position of advantage or creeps in close unobserved. The lights will be manned at nightfall, and the lookout will be doubled. The men will rest under arms, ready for the signals. They will have to be quick to beat last year's records, as at each attack the guns and stations were manned but a few seconds after the first alarm.

All morning the signal corps on both sides of the river has been perfecting its work. Smoke bombs and other daylight signals were sent up, and the heliograph and wigwag were working all day. Last night the men practiced with night signals.

DISTRICT TO PROBE STREET RAILROADS

Commissioners Will Determine Existing Relations Between Principal and Subsidiary Lines.

An examination into the exact relations that exist between the principal street railway companies of the District of Columbia, and the several renaining ones which constitute the sub-trict of Columbia, and the several remaining ones which constitute the subsidiary companies of the former is to be made by the District Electric Railway Commission.

Such an examination is involved in the instructions given by the commission at its meeting yesterday to secure a copy of the contract and sale papers which were filed with the corporation reallway and Electric Company acquired at control of the Brightwood Railway Company. The commission desires to be learn to just what extent the control exists, and what are the details as to the sharing of expenses, and profits. The commission intends, however, to make similar investigations regarding other car lines, after the Brightwood of the Brightwood Citizens' Association, has refused to accept Gen. George H. Harries' "no" as the answer to the request for a through car service to Washington during the rush hours. Alltitle over a week ago General Harries notified the traction board that no such service was "contemplated," stating, as the reason, that the Brightwood it allway Company is now being operated at a loss, and that the expenses of operation are now too great for that company to bear without assistance. He declared that a through service would only add to the company's dencit. This reply called forth a letter from Louis P. Shoemaker and C. C. Lancaster, president and vice president, respectively, of the Brightwood Citizens' Association, in which the District Electric Railway Commission was asked to secure information as to the cost of running through cars from Brightwood into the city, and as to the items showing how this expense is arrived at T.
